Outgoing President's Letter

The members of GSSC dedicate this issue of the Heirlines to our member Helen (Williams) Easton. Helen was one of the great volunteers at the GSSC Research Center, and the Siskiyou County Historical Society. She was also our secretary for many years. Most of us remember the beautiful hand made cards she sent when we were ill or just needed a bit of cheer. In her spare time she maintained the front yard of the research center. Helen Easton will be missed by us all.

This is my final message as your president. It has been my pleasure to work with the outgoing board for the last two years. I wish the new President Mary Burchfield success, and hope the members will give her the same support and encouragement I have received during my term..

A big "Thank You" to those who have renewed their membership, and made donations for 2008. I would also like to thank all the members who have volunteered their time to work at the GSSC Research Center, cataloging and shelving books, painting, and remodeling, giving classes and developing our new website. I know Mary has lots of new ideas she wants to try. I'm sure these will create new opportunities to volunteer and get to know, and learn from your fellow genealogist. The GSSC Research Center continues to grow because of the hard work of all the volunteers. Again, many thanks.

Patricia Healy

Incoming President Letter

I would like to thank Pat for the great job she did in the past two years.
It's a tough act to follow!

We now have our own web site. To connect, type in <http://www.rootsweb.ancestry.com/~casiskygs/>

We also have wireless capabilities at the Research Center and our e-mail address is gssc1@att.net
Another project was to get a new, efficient water heater. Thanks to Harvey Russell it is now installed and working. Great.

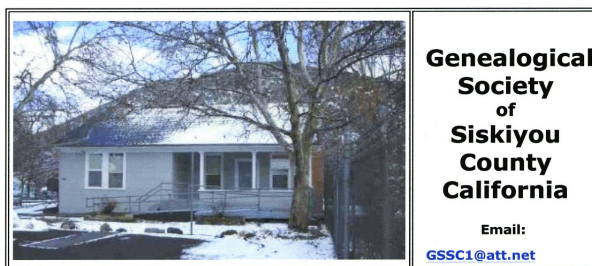

Mary Glenn donated a knitted afghan and Jennifer Bryan donated eight knitted scarves for a raffle. Pat Healy won the afghan and the scarves were won by: Wanda Payne, Janie Hayes, Sharon Youngs, Betty Bryan, Glenda Thomas, Karen Cleland, Pat Healy and Mary Burchfield.

In the coming year we hope to get the First Family books published. Volunteers will be needed to work on this project. So, come on down and join us!!

I am looking forward to working with all of you and am hoping for a very productive new year.
See you at the next meeting. (July 29th)

Mary Burchfield
President

Heir A Parent

James D. Williams Ranch and Family
By Helen Williams Easton and Allen Williams

First printed in The Siskiyou Pioneer Vol. 6, No. 1, 1988

Reprinted with permission of The Siskiyou County Historical Society and Museum

Our Little Shasta pioneer was James Daniel Williams. His grandfather was Daniel Williams who was born at Hadley, Massachusetts, on August 22, 1795. Grandfather Daniel married Hannah Manning whose mother was Abigail Alden, a direct descendant of John Alden who married Priscilla Mullens of Mayflower fame. After their marriage, Daniel and Hannah moved to Stratton, Vermont. They had six children. While the family was living there, Daniel was killed by a falling tree and is buried at the foot of the Green Mountains.

As the country began to expand, Daniel's widow and children migrated westward to eastern Iowa, settling around Marion and Monticello. The families were northerners; hence Daniel's sons, Thomas L. Williams (our grandfather) and his two brothers served in the Civil War with the northern forces, having enlisted with the Iowa Volunteers. Thomas' older brother, John, was in the infantry with General Sherman's famous march to the sea. His younger brother, George, lost his life in that war.

Thomas married Catherine E. Moran, and they had twelve children, seven living to maturity. After the war, Thomas continued to live near Monticello until his death in 1878.

Pioneer James Daniel Williams, known as "Jim" or "J. D. Williams," was born October 9, 1862, at Monticello, Jones County, Iowa, and was one of Thomas L. Williams' sons. Jim was only sixteen years old when his father died.

Upon completing his education, he helped his mother for a few years; and then after hearing so much about California and the slogan, "go West, Young Man," Jim headed West in 1882. He was nineteen years old when he journeyed by horseback from Monticello, Iowa, to Yreka.

That first winter in Shasta Valley, Jim tried trapping for furs up along the Klamath River and Willow creek. However, there had been such extensive fur trapping earlier, the area was nearly trapped out. He also worked for a large sheep rancher, helping to head and care for thousands of sheep (probably belonging to the Webb Brothers). Tiring of all the sheep, Jim then worked at a rock quarry located over the hill east of Yreka, helping to make tombstones. During Jim's early days in the area, he became close friends with Alonzo Sherman Walbridge, and on November 1, 1884, the two young men went into partnership and bought the Grass Valley Ranch located at Grass Lake. They paid the sum of $18,000 in gold coin for the property located in Sections 15, 21, 19, and 32. The ranch included 115 bushels of grain, about ten head of hogs, all farming tools, and the machinery and dairy implements. The Grass Valley Ranch had been owned earlier by Henry and John Walbridge who had acquired it in 1876 from Eli Barnum. Barnum bought the property in 1874 from Elizah Heard, which had been known earlier as the Heard Dairy Ranch.

An abundance of grass grew around the lake which was ideal for cattle. The dairy and ranch buildings were located on the northwestern side of Grass Lake. Young Williams and Walbrige milked cows and made butter which they put in gallon-sized cans and covered with mild salt brine. At that time there were ice-cold springs and ice caves nearby. Subsequently, the butter cans were sealed and stored by submerging them in the icy water of the small creek that flowed by into the lake. They utilized the skimmed milk by feeding it to the pigs they kept. Once or twice a month, Jim rode horseback leading a packhorse carrying the butter over Miller Mountain to Little Shasta where he delivered and sold the butter throughout the valley and Yreka.

During that time, Jim met Hattie Davis, one of the belles of the valley and one of the daughters of Henry Levi Davis. Mr. Davis was one of the earliest pioneers to settle in Little Shasta and came to the area in 1852 and acquired a land grant in 1854 for the purpose of farming. Hattie, the second daughter, was born June 6, 1865, in the little log cabin known as the "Davis cabin." Jim and Hattie were married April 21, 1886, at the home of her parents in Little Shasta.

The two partners, Williams and Walbridge, sold the Grass Lake Ranch on February 20, 1888, and the history of the J. D. Williams ranch in Little Shasta then began.

Jim brought a quarter section (160 acres) of Central Pacific Railroad land (SW ¼, Section 3, T 44 N, R 4 W), located at the foot of Miller Mountain. He also bought 164+ acres from Henry Davis (NW ¼, Section 4, T 44 N, R 4 W). Jim hired young Fred Kegg a neighbor's son, to help him cut trees on Miller Mountain to make the many posts needed to fence his land. They first built a small log cabin upon the mountain in which to live while cutting the trees and making the posts. A team of horses was used to haul the posts to where they were needed to build the many fence lines. Jim also built a large house, barns, and other needed buildings and began farming and rearing his family.

In about 1899, Jim's mother, Catherine E. Williams (born in 1832), came out West from Monticello, Iowa, to be with her son. On November 12, 1904, she filed a patent for a homestead (S 1/2, NE 1/4, Section 4) for the land that connected to her son's. The patent was signed by President Theodore Roosevelt. This expanded Jim's property by another 161+ acres of land.

While Grandma Catherine was living on her homestead, she raised two of her grandchildren: Jim's brother John's two children, Edgar and Grace (Kintgen). She had another son that was a United States federal Marshal who would visit her when his job brought him West. In her declining years, she moved back to Monticello, where she died. Jim then moved his mother's house down near the big house where his youngest son, Glen later lived with his family.

Much of the land in that area had been a large land claim filed on by Robert Redding in the early 1850's. (When John Kegg, a neighbor, filed his claim in 1853, his claim bordered on Redding's.) The Williams ranch property included the Charles Beaudroit place which had originally been the old Robert Redding home ranch. Mr. Redding had taken out a land claim in the early 1850's and later obtained a Civil War land grant signed by Abraham Lincoln. for many years his valuable framed document hung on the wall of the Williams' home.

Jim and Hattie lived all their married lives on the ranch in Little Shasta, located only a short distance from Hattie's birthplace on the Davis ranch at Roselawn. (A post office, earlier located on the old Hart place, was moved to the Davis ranch about 1906 and called "Roselawn.")

For many years, Jim raised cattle and produced grain and hay. In October, 1934, the Williams' big house burned. the fire also consumed a large wood room, fruit house, woodshed and a dairy room that was attached. They lost everything including nearly a year's supply of home-canned foods and their winter's supply of firewood. An awful wind was blowing, and it was like a roaring inferno. It all burned so rapidly that they were unable to save a thing. It was a sad time; they lost everything they had accumulated and treasured during their nearly fifty years of marriage. This included the old Redding land grant document signed by President Lincoln, and a silver-inlaid Hudson's Bay muzzle-loader that Jim had brought West with him. (They celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in 1936, a little over a year later.) Immediately after the fire, Jim hired Hugh French of Montague to build another house on the same spot. However, they had a smaller house built as the two old folks no longer needed as large a one as the first; and in the years following, several different parts of the original ranch were sold.

Jim and Hattie reared a family of five sons and one daughter. They all attended Table Rock School on Davis Lane, and Sunday school at the Little Shasta Church. These children were:

Floyd James Williams, (Born February, 1887; died 1968). After he completed his local schooling, Floyd went east to the University of Pennsylvania at Pittsburg, where he studied electrical engineering. During World War I, he enlisted in the army at Camp Mills, New York. It was soon discovered that he was hearing-impaired. Consequently, he was given a medical discharge. He worked a short time at Corvallis, Oregon. He soon became totally deaf which resulted in the loss of the engineering career that he'd wanted so badly. He never married, and he spent the rest of his long silent life working on the home ranch helping his father.

Ernest Henry Williams, (born December, 1890; died 1986). Ernest, as a young man, went to Alaska with his two younger brothers. He stayed only one year, and upon his return, married Edith Kegg. He homesteaded a place which was located along present Highway A-12 but didn't keep it long. He spent many years in Little Shasta Valley working on different ranches as a ditch tender doing irrigation, and as a milker. He also lived for a short time at Edgewood. In later years, he acquired his own place in Little Shasta. After his wife passed away, he sold the farm and moved to Montague and retired. He was in his ninety-sixth year when he passed away in 1986. He had two children: Edwin Ernest and Thelma Edith (Mort).

Lyman Williams, (born April, 1893; died 1979). As a young man, Lyman spent about fifteen years working for the Guggenheim Mines at Dawson, Canada, and in Alaska. He was inducted into the army while up there during World War I. When he returned, he married Meda Shults and spent the rest of his life in Klamath Falls, Oregon. There he retired as a lumber grader for Weyerhaeuser Lumber Company. He had two children a son that lived only a short time, and a daughter, Shirley Ann (Bundeson).

Allen Williams, (born November, 1894; died 1985). As a young man, he spent nearly twelve years around Fairbanks, Alaska. While he was living on the Alaskan frontier, he was a stage driver on the Fairbanks-Valdez trail. Also, he helped in the construction of the Alaska Railroad, and worked for the first Alaska road commission. He was also a licensed game guide. He was inducted into the army during World War I while living in the Territory of Alaska. When he returned, he married Clara Kegg Brown of Little Shasta, a widow with a young son, Carl. (Clara was a sister of Ernest's wife.) Allen ranched near Ager for nearly forty years, then retired and moved to Montague where he spent the next twenty-four years of his life. He lived to be ninety-one. Besides raising his stepson, Carl Andrew Brown, Jr., (who lost his life in World War II) Allen had two children: Charles LaVern and Helen Viola (Easton).

Viola Mary Williams, (born September, 1905; died 1916). She was Jim and Hattie's beautiful only daughter, and the five Williams boys' only sister. She died when she was only fourteen years old from appendicitis.

Glen Oren Williams, (born September, 1905; died 1979). He was the youngest son. He married Ruth Brown and spent his entire life on the home ranch where he was born, working with his father and brother Floyd. He had four children: David, Katherine (Kinhead), Daniel, and Carolyn (Schulz). Ruth and her son, David, and his family are still living on the Williams home place. David works for the United States Forest Service.

Pioneer James Williams was a respected man in the community. He was a hardworking, gentle-hearted man. Hattie was a good mother, and was remembered as a very thoughtful, kind lady. It was said that about once a week during good weather she could be seen driving her horse and buggy down from the ranch to Hart's Soda Springs. Here she got mineral water, stopping many times to visit friends and the elderly along the way. She enjoyed driving the horse and buggy so much that in later years Jim put rubber tires on the buggy so that it gave her a smoother ride.

All the Williams men were remembered for their love of hunting and fishing. Many people from Montague and Yreka would go out just to go hunting or fishing with them. The whole family was quite musically inclined. They all played a different musical instrument just for their own family enjoyment.

After spending over fifty-three years of married life on their ranch in Little Shasta Hattie passed away December 26, 1939. Jim died January 27, 1943. Not a one of their children is left. However, many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and numerous other relatives still live in Little Shasta Valley and the Montague area.

Obituaries

from Siskiyou Daily News

Helen Viola Easton

Lifelong Siskiyou County resident, Helen Viola Easton, passed away at her home in Montague on March 30, 2008, following a short illness.

Helen was born in Yreka, on October 29, 1933, the only daughter of Allen and Clara (Kegg) Williams, pioneering families of Little Shasta Valley. She was a 1951 graduate of Yreka High School.

This energetic, talented artistic woman was an inspiration to all who knew her. Helen spent many years doing volunteer work for different organizations, and especially loved working at the Siskiyou County Museum. She enjoyed doing historical research, then writing about it for the Siskiyou Pioneer. At the time of her illness, she was on the Board of Directors for the Historical Society of Siskiyou County and was an active member of the Genealogical Society of Siskiyou County. She held a life membership in Beta Sigma Phi International and was very active with the local Yreka Chapter. One of her most exciting moments was learning the new computer technology and designing brochures and other material for the clubs she was a member to.

Helen will be lovingly missed by her husband of 54 years, Edwin Easton of Montague; her daughter, Linda Hess and her husband, Deryl of Butte Valley; her son, Robert Easton and his wife, Cynthia of San Jose; two grandsons, Dustin Hess of Nevada and Lee Hess of Sacramento; twin grandchildren, Brenten and Marissa Easton of San Jose; a brother, Charles Williams of Iowa; and a nephew, Arthur Williams of Nevada.

Funeral services are scheduled for 1 p.m. on Thursday, April 3, 2008, at Girdner Funeral Chapel. Interment will follow in the family plot in the historic Little Shasta Cemetery.

SISKIYOU COUNTY PIONEER & CENTURY CERTIFICATES

The Genealogical Society of Siskiyou County, California is offering certificates for those of you that had ancestors living in Siskiyou County between the years of 1850-1880 and 1881-1910. The Pioneer Certificate will be for the 1850-1880 years and the Centennial Certificate for years from 1881-1910. These certificates will be suitable for framing and would make a great gift. In order to qualify for either certificate you must prove that your direct ancestor lived in Siskiyou County, California during those times. Siskiyou County was created March 22, 1852 from parts of Shasta and Klamath Counties. Because the County seat was such a far distance from the Yreka area, the residents decided to split from Shasta County and form their own County...thus Siskiyou County was formed in 1852. Then in 1874 residents of the Eastern portion of Siskiyou (now Modoc) wanted to split and form their own county. So between the years of 1850-1874 pioneers living in that area are considered Siskiyou County residents and their descendents are qualified to receive a Siskiyou County Pioneer/Century Certificate. If you had ancestors living in any of these area you are qualified to apply for a certificate.

In order to receive a certificate you must provide the Genealogical Society of Siskiyou County California with:

1. A family descendent chart direct from you to your ancestor
2. Documentation to prove lineage.
3. Proof of ancestors residency in that time period.

Documentation can include birth certificates, census (state or federal), voter registration, school records, deeds etc. Other documents will be discussed on the application. You may obtain a certificate for yourself or another person i.e. your children, sister or other relative, but you must be able to connect the lineage. You will not need to send duplicate documents for each application for same ancestor, just from the new applicant to the original applicant; thus using their lineage to the ancestor. These must be applied for at the time of the original application. The cost is $15.00 for the first certificate and $8.00 for an additional certificate using the same ancestor.

It is understood that all papers submitted to us may be used by the Genealogical Society of Siskiyou County for research purposes and will become our property. The proceeds from the certificates will be used to further the Siskiyou Genealogical Society's preservation of Siskiyou County history and promote interest in genealogy.
